

Towards the future

China National Petroleum Corporation

Energize · Harmonize · Realize

Energy is essential for economic and social development. As global energy demands keep rising, energy supply and environmental protection have become top concerns worldwide. As an energy company, CNPC is committed to pursuing harmony between energy and the environment.

More than fifty years of development and practice have made CNPC an international energy company, integrating the business portfolios of both oil companies and oilfield service companies. CNPC is China's most important oil and gas producer and supplier and ranks fifth among the world's top oil companies, with operations covering the entire oil industry chain.

— this is who we are based in China

We operate 26 modern refineries in China, as well as 18,000 service stations across the country, providing quality oil products and services to end users.

Natural gas is by far the cleanest fossil fuel, and thus is a realistic choice for the development of a low carbon economy. CNPC always attaches great importance to its natural gas business, and is committed to providing a safe, reliable and stable gas supply for social and economic development.

Backed up by four major gas provinces — Tarim, Changqing, Sichuan and Qinghai, and a nationwide pipeline network linking the producing fields with major markets, our gas supply covers over 70% of the country's total consumption.

less emissions

We have built three LNG terminals in Jiangsu, Dalian and Tangshan. Additionally, we are making progress in exploring more unconventional gas resources such as CBM, tight gas and shale gas.

partnership

We adhere to the principle of mutually beneficial and common development in international operations. We have oil and gas assets and operations in 33 countries around the world, and provide oilfield services in 55 countries. Our petroleum materials and equipment are sold in 88 countries and regions worldwide. We have equity in several joint venture refineries in Singapore, Kazakhstan, Sudan, the United Kingdom and other countries.

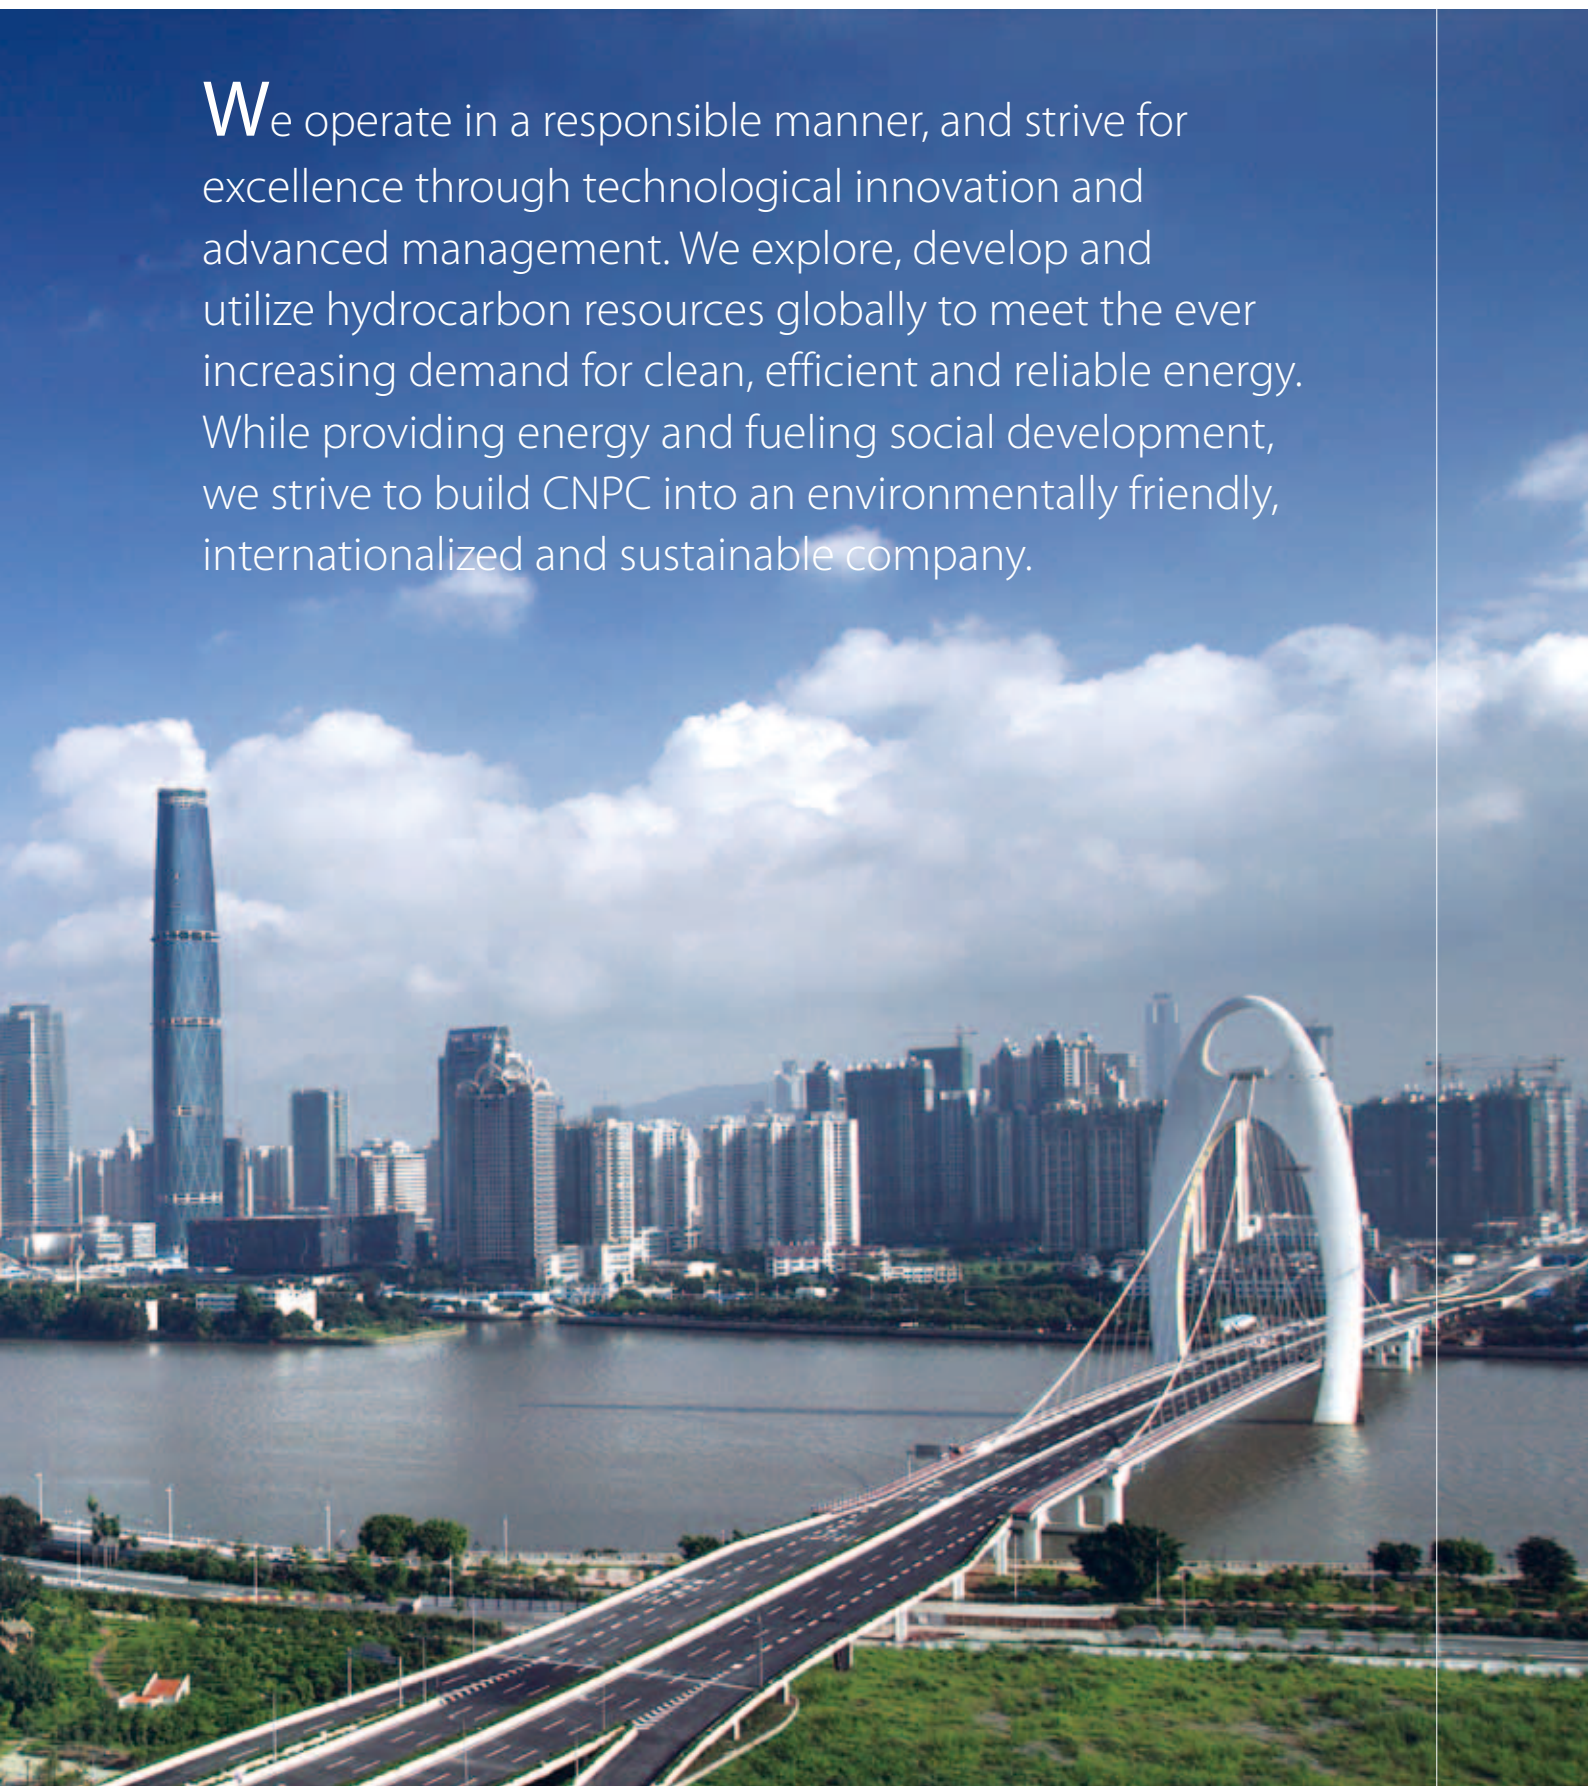

In Asia, Europe and America, we have established three overseas oil and gas operation centers. Our international trading volume totals 195 million tons, with the trade value exceeding USD 100 billion. We, together with our partners, are dedicated to promoting economic and social development in resource countries, while contributing to stable energy supply.

We operate in a responsible manner, and strive for excellence through technological innovation and advanced management. We explore, develop and utilize hydrocarbon resources globally to meet the ever increasing demand for clean, efficient and reliable energy. While providing energy and fueling social development, we strive to build CNPC into an environmentally friendly, internationalized and sustainable company.
